Concentrated Fragrance Oils Byredo Rose Fragrance Oil

Product Code: LDZ-PL10343

This concentrated fragrance oil, inspired by the minimalist and evocative DNA of Byredo, offers a sophisticated olfactive profile designed for high-end daily wear and professional perfume production. Unlike traditional, overly sweet floral scents, this oil captures the "modern rose"—one that is grounded, atmospheric, and gender-neutral.

The fragrance opens with a crisp, spicy luminosity, often characterized by pink pepper and raspberry blossom, which provide a vibrant, modern edge. At its heart lies a duo of Turkish Rose Absolute and Grasse Rose, delivering a rich, velvety floral core that feels authentic rather than synthetic. The base notes anchor the composition with a sophisticated blend of papyrus, white amber, and clean musk, ensuring a dry down that is earthy, slightly woody, and exceptionally long-lasting.

Due to its high concentration and stability, this oil is an ideal primary accord for several applications, including Eau de Parfum manufacturing, luxury body care, and premium ambient scenting like soy candles. This is a "deconstructed" rose that strips away vintage powderiness, replacing it with a clean, slightly metallic, and woody sophistication.

Fragrance Profile

Fragrance Notes	Description
Top Notes (Opening)	The Top Notes provide an immediate, vibrant impact, utilizing the sharp, effervescent heat of Pink Pepper blended with the soft, fruity sweetness of Raspberry Blossom. This creates a crisp, luminous opening that feels fresh and energetic rather than heavy.
Middle Notes (Heart)	As the scent evolves into the Middle Notes, the heart reveals a rich, velvety core of Turkish Rose Absolute and Grasse Rose. This floral duo provides a deep, authentic "red rose" character that is both romantic and resilient, carefully balanced to avoid becoming overly powdery.
Base Notes (Foundation)	The Base Notes anchor the fragrance with an earthy, sophisticated foundation of Papyrus and White Amber. These elements, along with a hint of clean musk, provide a dry, woody finish that ensures exceptional longevity on the skin and a polished, contemporary sillage suitable for daily luxury.

Applications & Functions

The primary function of this fragrance oil is to provide a stable and consistent olfactive signature that defines the identity of a product. In professional manufacturing, it acts as a "deconstructed rose" accord, functioning as both a centerpiece and a harmonizer for other ingredients.

Beyond its aromatic profile, it serves as a masking agent, effectively neutralizing the base odors of raw cosmetic ingredients like fatty acids, surfactants, or waxes that can otherwise compromise a product's appeal. Its chemical structure is engineered for fixative efficiency, meaning it helps "anchor" lighter, more volatile top notes (like citrus or spice), extending the overall scent life on the skin or in the air.

Furthermore, because it is a professional-grade concentrate, it provides a high aromatic payload at low inclusion levels, allowing manufacturers to maintain cost-effectiveness without sacrificing the depth or "luxury" feel of the scent profile.

Industrial Applications

The applications of this oil span the entire spectrum of luxury personal care and home scenting. In Fine Fragrance Production, it is used as the base for Eau de Parfum (EDP) and Eau de Toilette (EDT), where its clarity allows for clean layering.

In Dermocosmetics and Skin Care, it is incorporated into premium body oils, lotions, and facial serums (at lower dosages) to elevate the user experience into a ritualistic "spa" feel. Its heat stability makes it exceptionally popular for Ambient Scenting, specifically in the production of luxury soy or mineral wax candles and reed diffusers, where it maintains its complex "spicy-woody rose" character even when exposed to high temperatures.

Additionally, it is frequently utilized in Aesthetic Personal Care products, such as artisanal soaps and high-end hair mists, where it leaves a lingering, sophisticated sillage that differentiates a brand from mass-market floral offerings.
